What activities have you done? *

I have done a laboratory experiment, other activities with a worksheet, a presentation about my family past and we did a map of the route that Federico followed when he was in New York.

What did you enjoy the most about the activities? Why? *

I enjoyed the most the experiment in the lab, because i have never do something like that before, and because i learned something new about Federico's life.

What would you change about the activities? How would you do it differently? *

I think that we must to do this activities with more time, maybe the hole week. Because in one day we have not time to do everything.

Give your opinion about the activities. Did you find interesting researching about your family's past? Why?

Yes, i find this activity interesting because is nice to share histories and photos with your friends in class.

State 2 things you learned in the lab (Sugar Experiment)

One thing, is that i didn't know about Federico's father has a factory of sugar.
And second, i didn't know that a lemon do not have sugar.

Do you think the activities are useful? Why? *

I think yes, because Lorca is part of our culture and is necessary to learn about he.

What was the easiest step in the activity you did with your English teacher? Which was the most challenging?

The easiest step was find the photo of the place. The most challenging was to translate the route and to edit the map (because we didn't see the picture that we needed).

What activities have you done? *

I've done a photo glimpse, a kind of experiment for see the sugar that content some fruits such as an orange, and also in soda, we recreate a map in Were we located the places that Lorca has been in, and also we watched a video of how people obtain the sugar from the sugar beets

What did you enjoy the most about the activities? Why? *

I've enjoyed the experiment in Chemistry, because I could put in practice my skills learned for use correctly the material and see things that other persons can't see and also for see if the companies lie us in the "SUGAR-FREE" message that we can see in too many sodas,juices,etc

What would you change about the activities? How would you do it differently? *

In my opinion I want to change the way of use the technology for do some projects like in the English one that we made. I know that we aren't allow to use phones, but in an activity in which you have to use Internet and Google maps and other tools, I'd rather to use phones in class just for do it more interactive, instead of copy send it by classroom and that. Also it could be better for the teachers because they will be free of write and make the map in his/her house.

Give your opinion about the activities. Did you find interesting researching about your family's past? Why?

Yes, I really like it, because I could see how my family was in the past and also for be how we are now, all the things that have changed, etc. I'd do it again.

State 2 things you learned in the lab (Sugar Experiment)

I've seen that a free-sugar soda hasn't sugar, before do the experiment I used to think that a free-sugar Soda had sugar, in other words the message was lying at me.

Do you think the activities are useful? Why? *

Kind of, most of them for me have been useful, I learned new things, and they have made the last school days more enjoyable.

What was the easiest step in the activity you did with your English teacher? Which was the most challenging?

The easiest one was to translate the sentence into english. And no one result for me challenging

Choose one option: *

- I am not interested in any activities.
- The activities were too difficult for me.
- The activities were too easy for me.
- I don't like working in pairs.
- I prefer more "normal" activities.

What did you learn from the activities? (you can answer either in Spanish or English). About English: About Lorca:
About working with my partner: *

I've learned that Lorca was in New York working in poetry I didn't know that before so that's a good point I could see how Spaniards have been in famous places of New York. And I have also discovered new monuments and their history

How have you felt in class? Interested - Indifferent - Bored - Frustrated. Why? *

I have felt indifferent in the technology project one because we were doing all the same thing just copying information from a video and I have discovered things about the sugar but we could do with more interactive because we do it normally in class

Have you tried to get involved in the activities? Yes, No, because... *

Yeah I have been involved in all of them

Have you asked your teachers/peers if something wasn't clear to you? Why not? *

No I haven't asked to my teachers or to my colleagues because everything was clear the teachers gave the information clear and step by step

Have you written down the things you've learnt? Where? *

Yes I have written it down in a sheet of paper that the teachers gave us

Were the instructions clear? *

Yeah everything was clear

What activities have you done? *

I've done research about the past of my family in history, did a test if the zero sugar soda actually had no sugar in chemistry, and knew how sugar is made in technology.

What did you enjoy the most about the activities? Why? *

I enjoyed it when I learned something about someone i didn't know— Federico García Lorca. I also enjoyed researching about my family and comparing the differences between past Philippines and past Spain.

What would you change about the activities? How would you do it differently? *

I think that the activities could've been much more fun. I wish we did more in different subjects. In technology, i wish there was more than watching a How It's Made video, in chemistry— I wish we tested more things, and I wish that the research in history was a little bit more in-topic.

Give your opinion about the activities. Did you find interesting researching about your family's past? Why?

I did, a lot. It was interesting to see how much the world has changed in just a small amount of time. There are many differences, but there are also some similarities.

State 2 things you learned in the lab (Sugar Experiment)

I learned that zero sugar soda actually had no sugar, and that Lorca's father made sugar.

Do you think the activities are useful? Why? *

Sure, I guess, but through daily life? I don't think so.

What was the easiest step in the activity you did with your English teacher? Which was the most challenging?

It was writing about the places, and i dont think anything was challenging. She guided us throughout the entire process.

Choose one option: *

- I am not interested in any activities.
- The activities were too difficult for me.
- The activities were too easy for me.
- I don't like working in pairs.
- I prefer more "normal" activities.

What did you learn from the activities? (you can answer either in Spanish or English). About English: About Lorca:
About working with my partner: *

I learned so much about Lorca. I didn't even know who he was before this, and I learned that he's a poet from Granada, practically everyone knows him (except me), and that his father made sugar. He also had a mysterious death, due to his political beliefs.

How have you felt in class? Interested - Indifferent - Bored - Frustrated. Why? *

I was in the middle of bored and interested. The activities were in English, and I, a native speaker, didn't learn much from what i already know. In chemistry and history, though, I was very interested. I found it interesting to know how to check if something has sugar, and to know about my past.

Have you tried to get involved in the activities? Yes, No, because... *

Yes! Definitely, I liked them all.

Have you asked your teachers/peers if something wasn't clear to you? Why not? *

Yeah, I have, but not much.

Have you written down the things you've learnt? Where? *

No, not really.

Were the instructions clear? *

Yeah, I understood completely.
